

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

June 14, 2016

Eve Taylor, Ph.D.
Kingstown, Virginia

Dear Dr. Taylor:

I am pleased to join your family and friends in congratulating you on your graduation.

Your advanced degree represents years of tireless study and a deep commitment to your passion. This accomplishment should bring you not only tremendous pride, but also a strong sense of responsibility. As part of an elite community of scholars and leaders, our Nation will look to you to contribute within and beyond your field and to expand our shared knowledge of our world.

In America, you are the author of your own destiny, and this achievement is the beginning of a new chapter. In the years ahead, I hope you will take up the charge to improve your community, serve our country, and make the world a better place for the next generation.

I offer my congratulations and best wishes for all your future endeavors.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to be Barack Obama's signature, consisting of a large 'B' followed by 'O' and 'B' with a long horizontal stroke extending to the right.